Company profile

Being the largest water and environmental services company in Germany and in 34 countries across the world, REMONDIS makes an important contribution towards conserving natural resources and supplying raw materials with its facilities and services. Over the last few years, it has made massive investments in state-of-the-art technologies and know-how demonstrating just how important the subjects of environmental protection and resource conservation as well as water management are at REMONDIS. Since 1989, more than 20 billion euros have been invested in developing and building new water supply and treatment facilities as well as sorting, composting, emission filter, waste incineration and biomass-fired plants.

With natural resources becoming scarcer and scarcer, the private-sector environmental service branch is playing an ever more important role in supplying raw materials around the globe and in preventing climate change. REMONDIS – a family run enterprise founded in 1934 – provides jobs for more than 30,000 people and generates an annual revenue of 6,8 billion euros (2012). The company focuses on creating partnership concepts and new ideas in waste management and opening up future perspectives in order to continue to make an important contribution towards the supply of raw materials and water in the future.
